

POVERTY REDUCTION

EGYPT NETWORK FOR INTEGRATED DEVELOPMENT

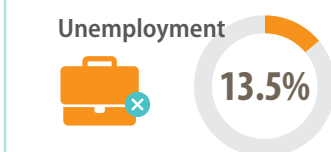

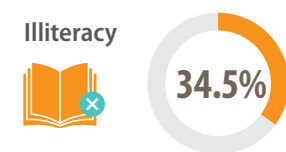

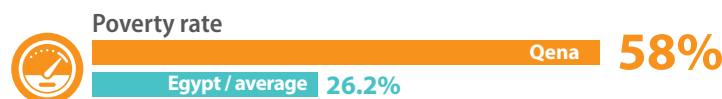

Tackling poverty on all fronts

Currently focused on Qena, the Egypt Network for Integrated Development (ENID/EINidaa) responds to the increasing needs of the poor and vulnerable in Egypt. ENID designs integrated solutions for community-level challenges, providing skills, jobs and better public services to poor women and youth.

START DATE:
2012
DELIVERY (2014):
1.3 million USD

WHY QENA

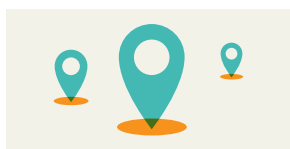

2013

ENID WORKS IN 35
VILLAGES IN QENA

AREAS OF WORK

1. Promoting micro, small and medium enterprises

ONE VILLAGE, ONE PRODUCT

The One-Village-One-Product model has been implemented in 18 villages to promote handicraft and cottage industry development.

SKILLS FOR ENTREPRENEURS

Upgraded the technical, vocational education and training programmes to enhance employability and promote entrepreneurship.

A DEVELOPMENT NETWORK

Supported the development of business clusters and connected them to main markets.

2. Boosting agriculture

SUSTAINABLE AGRICULTURE

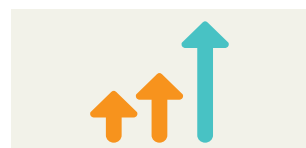

Introduced sustainable agricultural practices in Upper Egypt including crop residue recycling, community milk processing and backyard poultry raising.

FARMER FIELD SCHOOLS

Farmer Field Schools support farmers technically and raise awareness of best practices in farming and agriculture.

3. Public services

UPGRADED QUALITY OF LIFE

ENID is providing innovative joint literacy and sewing classes, has opened pre-schools, provided health services and upgraded the operations and curriculum of youth centres in Qena.

KNOWLEDGE FOR ACTION

ENID links its field projects with the policies and programmes at the national level through its policy and advocacy programmes that include policy briefs, case studies, conferences, roundtables and the website www.enid.org.eg

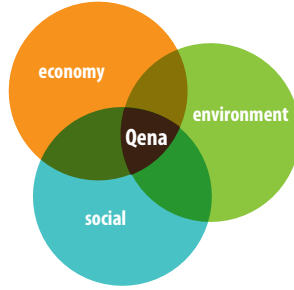

25
POLICY BRIEFS

15
CASE STUDIES

INTEGRATED DEVELOPMENT

To maximise impact on poverty, the project adopts an integrated approach linking economic, social and environmental interventions concentrated on a specific area.

ENID IN FIGURES / 2012-2014

 2,135 young women and men trained

573 were employed in ENID activities 70% women

PARTNERS

"The course will enable me to produce and sell. And I think that great things will happen in my life now. I hope to continue working with the local NGO to help increase my experience and train more in marketing. If I cannot work with the NGO, I will buy a machine and start to work by myself at home."
says Saaeda, a young woman from Qena who enrolled in literacy and sewing classes.

Project website: www.enid.org.eg

 EnidEGYPT  @connect2enid

UNITED NATIONS DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME
in Egypt

  undpegypt
www.eg.undp.org

Empowered lives.
Resilient nations.

Photos: UNDP / Dylan Lowthian

DOWNLOAD PDF

